

Document and Content Management for Today's Enterprise

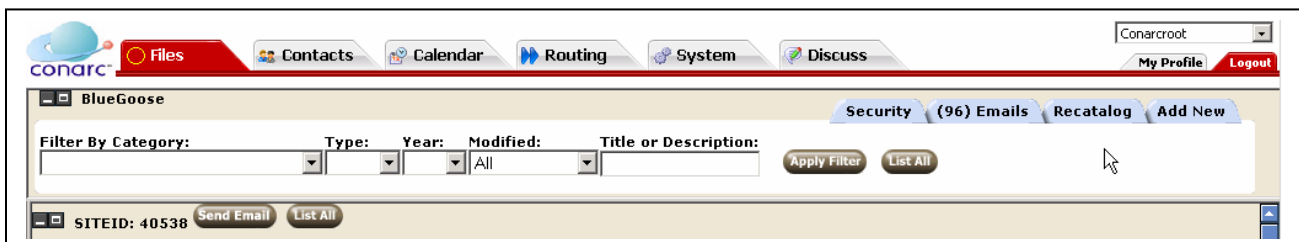

Documents come in many forms in today's enterprises. There are thousands of documents flowing across your network ranging from emails and spreadsheets to contracts and financial data.

Now is the time to implement a Document Management System (DMS) that can create, share, manipulate and manage all structured and unstructured information in one integrated system. This will have a dramatic increase in firm productivity and a reduction in the paper that clogs your offices.

iChannel™ is a web browser-based, collaborative document management system. iChannel accommodates different sources of information, any and all of which can be logically and simply accessed by anyone at any time from anywhere. iChannel extracts intelligence and manages output from corporate information systems as well as desktop generated information, email and paper-based data. The result is a paperless office environment that promotes simple, high-speed access to all forms and combinations of information at the click of a mouse.

Here are some of the key features of iChannel.

- Digital Document Management
- All files maintained in their native format
- Open flexible structure for document repository
- Customization to integrate with legacy systems
- Content discussion capacity (threaded to document)
- Full version control of documents
- Automatic email notification on activity with documents
- Formalized check-out, check-in of document with audit trail
- Centralized and/or distributed document storage
- Automatic sweeping of output from external applications into iChannel for distribution
- Strict security of access based on Groups and Users
- Improved decision making capacity by having the latest information at any given time
- Minimized dealings with phone calls, sending and receiving faxes and, to a great extent, email
- Seamless publishing of documents to clients
